In the 2017 report, we focus on all types of glaucoma surgery and show how minimally invasive glaucoma surgery (MIGS) stents will dramatically change glaucoma care, leading to patients being treated at an earlier stage in the disease process. We expect the size of the glaucoma surgical device market to more than triple over the next five years, driven largely by the impact of MIGS stents. The list of companies participating in the MIGS space continues to grow and includes Glaukos, Allergan, Alcon, Ivantis, and Santen, and we look at the challenges and opportunities each will face in the coming years.
